

Youth Mission Projects North American Mission Study for Youth 2009

Connect with the Missionaries

The missionaries focused on in the youth study are Daniel and Kimberly Goomib and Brenda Crim. You can contact either of these missionaries to determine specific projects in which youth could participate related to their ministries. Contact information for these missionaries can be found at www.anniearmstrong.com/missionaries.

Connect Locally

Consult your local associational missionary to determine ways your youth can participate in a local missions project that relates to a specific people group in your community. Plan to share details on how and when you will participate in such mission opportunities.

Connect Through Prayer

Have a time of dedicated prayer for the missionaries focused on in this study. Have youth to write out their prayers as they pray them. Afterwards, gather the prayer requests and send them to the missionary being prayed for.

Connect Through Giving

Remind youth that these missionaries are serving where they are because God has called them to their particular setting, and He has provided for their needs—both ministry and personal. Remind them that the Annie Armstrong Easter Offering and the Cooperative Program provides financial support for these missionaries. With the youth, brainstorm ways they could gather funds to support the Annie Armstrong Easter Offering. Put one or more of those plans into action, and give youth a deadline for when money should be brought to the church for this purpose.
